Fumes Overcome Man, Car Knocks Over Parking Meter Near Hospital

John R. Stadaford of Fairmont will always remember Marlinton; probably with mixed feelings. Perhaps unhappy because he got sick there or maybe thankfulness because he got sick here.

Here is the story as related by Chief of Police Stanley Wooddell:

At about 2:10 a.m. Monday morning Wooddell was called to the phone by a man saying he felt sick and dizzy and wanting to know how to find a room for the night. He had rung the night bell at the Alpine Hotel but could not rouse anyone. Wooddell gave him directions on how to reach the Marlinton Hotel just two blocks away, and went back to bed.

About ten minutes later the phone again roused Wooddell. It was the same voice saying he had been unable to find the place and wanting further instructions as he was getting sicker all the time. Stanley patiently repeated the instructions. Then he slipped out on the front porch where he could see the Marlinton Hotel to watch for the car. None ever came that way but he saw a car come from South Third Avenue and turn west on main street. A little later he heard a car horn blow a couple of times.

Wooddell had hardly returned to the house after deciding the caller had given up and was leaving town when the phone rang a third time. This time it was the night nurse at Pocahontas Memorial Hospital saying a car had just knocked off a parking meter in front of the Presbyterian Church and had gone carbon monoxide had just about completed its deadly mission.

After spending the night in the hospital Mr. Stadaford had his brother come from Fairmont on the bus and accompany him home. The brother, when told of the police's suspicion at first that the sick man had been drinking, said that he didn't drink at all.

The brothers Stadaford smilingly paid the town $35.00 to replace the broken parking meter and, after squaring the hospital account, started for Fairmont again (with the car windows open) thankful that the car had run off the road where it did, near the hospital, rather than over a bank and possibly into the river.

Ed. Note: On page 6 of this issue of The Journal can be found a warning about carbon monoxide fumes and how to protect yourself from them. In the light of the above story I suggest that everyone read it.

The motor was still running and the lights were on but no one was visible.

Believing he had a drunk driver to deal with Wooddell hurried to the scene and found the car as described. When he opened the door he found the driver slumped in the seat. He shut off the motor, went to the hospital (just across the street) and had the nurse call Dr. Dilley. When the doctor heard the story he advised bringing the man to the hospital and that he would come down to see what was wrong.

Stanley and the hospital employees carried the man to the hospital where efforts were made to revive him. After Dr. Dilley arrived the man came to and seemed entirely rational, remembering everything up to the time of his blackout. He said he was on his way to Fairmont from South Carolina but was turned back by slick roads on Elk Mountain. He decided to spend the night in Marlinton since he wasn't feeling too well anyway. However his illness became more intense and, when he was unable to rouse the innkeeper, decided to call the police for help. He also told of having a new tail pipe put on his car along the road and the mechanic told him it didn't fit just right.

It was decided that exhaust fumes had penetrated the car due to the faulty pipe and the

New Post Office To Be Built At Hillsboro

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield and William D. Workman, Postmaster, announced today that a contract has been signed for a new Post Office Building in Hillsboro, West Virginia.

The new quarters, which will be under construction in the near future, will be rented to the Post Office Department by Mr. Ralph H. Burns of Hillsboro. Completion date is expected to be about June 1961.

To be located on Main Street, this new post office structure will contain about 1,108 square feet of interior space and ample space for parking and truck maneuvering. The present quarters provide only 440 square feet of space.

QUESTION: Some friends of ours are do-it-yourself experts and constantly are dropping such seemingly foreign words as mighter, plum, suage, mortise, and fret into our conversations about home projects. We're just beginning to put together a workshop. Could you define these terms so we won't feel so inferior?

ANSWER: The words you have cited (you've misspelled several!) are just a few of many in glossary of carpenters' expressions that seems to grow each year. Here are the definitions (and correct spellings) of the ones you mentioned:

Miter—A joint formed by two pieces of material with angled ends, such as you see at the corner of a picture frame. The joint generally is at a 45° angle.

A mortise is a notch or groove cut in a piece of wood or other material.

Plumb—This usually refers to making materials or objects such as posts, cabinets, etc.,

Spelunker Trapped In Cass Cave; Finally Rescued By Volunteers

Four Princeton University students, all experienced "spelunk-ers", decided to spend their between-semester holidays exploring Cass Cave. They had read about the cavern in a national speleological publication and, like most cave explorers, wanted to look it over just because it was there.

The young men arrived in Pecahontas County Saturday. On Sunday at about 2:00 p.m. they entered the long narrow passage to what some know as "Salicide Cave". This crawlway was wet and muddy but they inched along, dragging their ropes and paraphernalia behind them. Instead of following the underground stream to the lip of the 150 ft. falls the four young men took the high road or passage that emerges some 50 ft. higher up than the top of the falls. This route is taken by spelunkers because it is dry and safer.

From the 200 ft. elevation the young men lowered their climbing rope to the floor of the "big room". Although the rope was wet and muddy one of the boys (Roger A. Wiegand of Villa Park, Ill.) made the descent and returned to report everything O.K. The next lad to go down was William F. Isherwood of Bladensburg, Md. He got down all right but found, when he started back, that the mist from the falls had turned the mud on the rope to a slimy mess that kept his "climber" from holding when he tried to ascend. After trying for some time to find some ways and means to get Isherwood back up, the three on top decided more help was needed. While one of them remained on the scene the other two crawled back outside to get aid. The time was then about midnight.

Corp. Talbott and Trooper Shreve of the State Police were assistants. Harry Mahoney and Ken Arbogast, Ed Baldwin and Bill Brock of Dunmore were there, as was Ted Kiffe and Cliff Brooks of Cass. Also helping were Dr. C. M. Wade, Dr.

Sebastian Von Hogner and Dr.
F. D. Drake of the Astronomy
Center at Green Bank and Wayne
Ware of Marlinton.

Several of the more hardy volunteers entered the crawlway and made their way to where Isherwood made his descent. According to one of them it was impossible to communicate with the trapped man because of the roar of the waterfall and, although National Forest emergency lamps were used, it was also impossible to see the bottom because of the fog thrown up by the cascade. When the rescuers shouted to the Princeton student it sounded like they were "hol-lerin' down a rain barrel".

Some time last summer the Astronomy Center group had dared to negotiate this same trip.
At that time they had spliced together a rope ladder for the trip down and back up the underground cliff. This ladder was found and after seven or eight

Lucille Bright Simmons Named As Pocahontas "Teacher of the Year"

Lucille Bright Simmons has been named Pocahontas County's "Teacher of the Year" for 1961. Mrs. Simmons, in her thirty-third year of teaching, is now teacher of the primary grades at the Seneca Trail School at Slaty Fork. And her patrons think her teaching ability, her interest in and control of her students rank her among the best.

This program of honoring a teacher is part of the educational program of the Marlinton Woman's Club. The committee making the selection represented different sections and different groups of the County and was fair in its consideration of all teachers, realizing it could not weigh the merits correctly but wanting to make known to the teachers that their efforts in the lives of our future citizens are not going unnoticed.

The 1961 honoree is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey K. Bright, of Marlinton, and is one of a family of ten, three boys and seven girls. She attended school in Marlinton where she was valedictorian of the graduating class of 1928 at Marlinton High School.

In high school she took the Normal Training Courses, and completed the Standard Normal Course of Study at Concord College in August of 1934.

She says she grew up with the idea of teaching school. Her father taught school when she was very small. That was in the days of the old institutes, and some of his teacher friends from a distance would stay with the family. In those institutes, he sons who will go "the extra mile". By honoring Mrs. Simmons may we honor all members of the teaching profession who are giving of themselves in the training of our children, and may they rise to greater heights of service because they realize their patrons and friends are thinking of the importance of their work in the future of our nation.

LOIS TENNANT NAMED HOMEMAKER OF TOMORROW

The 1961 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow for Marlinton High School is Lois Tennant.

Having received the highest score in a written examination on homemaking knowledge and attitudes taken by graduating seniors in her school, she becomes a candidate for the state Homemaker of Tomorrow award which will be announced in March.

Each school Homemaker of Tomorrow will receive an award pin, manufactured by Jostens and representing the slogan, "Home is Where the Heart Is". The examination papers of school Homemakers of Tomorrow will be entered in competition to name the state's Homemaker of Tomorrow.

The $110,000 homemaking education program sponsored by General Mills offers a $1,500 scholarship to the first ranking girl in each state and $500 scholarship to the state's second ranking participant.

State Homemakers of Tomorrow and their Faculty advisors receive an expense-paid educational tour of New York City.

"All of her teaching has been in Pocahontas; two years at the Dry Branch School; six years teaching the primary grades at Campbelltown; and teaching the primary grades at Seneca Trail School at Slaty Fork now for twenty-five years.

On May 29, 1946, she was married to Clinton Simmons, of Mingo, where they reside.

Mrs. Simmons is a member of the Mingo Presbyterian Church and a member of the Women of the Church. She has helped with Vacation Bible Schools, teaches the adult class at Sunday School and conducts the Bible Study at Women's Meetings.

"As to my teaching", Mrs. Simmons says, "I have tried to give my best. All teachers I have been privileged to teach with have been most understanding and helpful. The wholehearted cooperation of the community both parents and friends of the school, has enabled us to have a very active P.T.A. group. Through this group, our school has benefitted in many ways. There are improvements to the lunch room, such as curtains and deep freezer. A movie projector and record player are other recent additions. These were financed by carnivals, cake walks, bake sales, ramp suppers, and the like."

This community cooperation is attested to by others also. Her patrons think her deep interest in and concern for her pupils have solved many a disciplinary problem. The school, once having all eight grades but now having only six, with two teachers, has served to hold together the people of the community in this outlying district.

County School Superintendent M. K. Brooks, upon being informed of her selection, said, "She is a real worker and utilizes every bit of time with her pupils. She is one of those per-

The testing and judging is conducted by Science Research Associates of Chicago. With a record 402,786 girls in 12,633 of the nation's schools participating this year, the Betty Crocker Search has enrolled more than two million girls in its seven-year history.

The entire group that entered the cave got soaked crawling through the mud and water and within minutes after they emerged early Monday morning into the sub-freezing temperature on the outside their clothes were frozen stiff.

Another unexpected mental hazard for the rescuers who were "spelunking" for the first time were the hundreds of bats hanging on the cave ceiling just waiting, they thought, to drop down the back of someone's shirt. Luckily it didn't happen or perhaps Isherwood would have had company at the bottom.

After a hearty breakfast and a hot bath Isherwood and Weigand with their fellow spelunkers, Peter D. Smith of Washington, D. C., and David H. Stanley of Vienna, Va., left Monday for their studies at Princeton. Four more who will never forget Pocahontas County.

Mr. and Mrs. Silas M. Compton, operators of a 285 acre livestock farm in Pendleton County, are the 1960 top farm family in the 25 counties of the Farming For Better Living Program.

Announcement of the selection of the Compton farm operation as the Sweepstakes winner was made Saturday (February 4), at a noon banquet sponsored by Elkins by the Elkins Retail Merchants Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Compton, in addition to the certificate of achievement awarded to the Sweepstakes winners, received the Don Potter Challenge Award, an annual presentation of a savings bond by the president of Monongahela Power Company.

Announcement of the Sweepstakes winner concludes the award list for the 1960 Farming For Better Living year. At the same banquet Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McNeal, Jr. and Mrs. J. M. McNeal, Sr., of Hillsboro in Pocahontas county were announced as the regional winners for Region III of FFBL which includes the counties of Pendleton, Pocahontas, Upshur, Randolph and Tucker.

During the fall catch of the 25 counties in the Farming For Better Living program honored a local banquet. Regional winners are selected from past county winners and the Sweepstakes winner from past regional champions.

Mr. and Mrs. Compton were Pendleton county champions in 1949 and Champions of Region III in 1951. Their farm program has shown a steady growth through the years except for 1956 when the farm suffered a major setback in a barn fire that destroyed the barn, 2,996 bales of hay, and 64 head of cattle. The beef herd is now, however, back to the number kept on the farm at that time. They have a basic cow herd of 52 Hereford and Shorthorns. Yearlings and two year-olds are marketed. The swine herd of five brood sows produced 84 pigs last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Compton are active in civic affairs and community affairs. Mr. Compton is chairman of the Potomac Soil Conservation district and the excellent condition of his pastures and meadows reflect that interest. He is a director of the Tri-County Fair Association, a member of the Farm Bureau, and church treasurer. Mrs. Compton is vice-president of her Farm Women's club, treasurer of the Women of the Church and a Sunday School teacher. They have one daughter, Nancy Jo Bodnar, who is teaching school.

After the film has been shown Killoran brings the action back to the studio by asking the panel members their views on the matter. This discussion takes up the remainder of the time.

In an informal discussion before the show Conservation Commissioner Warden Lane was asked why he was opposed to the Cass railroad project and he claimed he was not opposed—that since he had the facts and figures he thought the idea practical. When your editor confronted him with the statement he was quoted in the Beckley papers as having made—that he would rather build a railroad around Bluestone reservoir and the New River Gorge than keep the railroad at Cass—Lane said he had been misquoted and what he actually said was that he thought a scenic railroad at New River Gorge or Blackwater Falls would be more profitable.

Lane also told the local contingent that "if you can generate as much steam on the Williams River project and others as you have on this you can probably get anything you want. There are any number of potentially good projects around over the state that will never be realized because of the failure of local residents to fight for them".

Marlinton-Hillsboro To Play Extra Cage Game

According to Emery "Duke" Anderson, Jr., coach of the Hillsboro "Red Devils", Marlinton and Hillsboro will meet a third time on the basketball court this season. The game will be played at Hillsboro on Wednesday, Feb. 22, at 8:00 p. m.

Since Marlinton was advance to the Double A bracket this year they will play in the AA tournament at Webster Springs on Mar. 2. This leaves only Hillsboro and Green Bank to play a single game on Friday, February 24, at Hillsboro for the Class A section championship. In the three games played this year with Marlinton and Hillsboro the Golden Eagles have won them all.

Marlinton will meet Green Bank on the M. H. S. floor Friday night. This will be their final meeting of the season.

Mrs. Howard Patther and daughter, Mrs. Fred Pifer, and son spent Monday and Tuesday with Rev. and Mrs. Fairburn.

Mr. Noel Armstrong, who suffered a heart attack on Sunday, has returned home from the hospital and is on the mend.

Rev. J. C. Fisher, Rev. Ed Stout and Rev. Paul Pepoon were recent visitors at the parsonage.

Our cottage prayer meetings are very well attended and seem to be growing each week. Attendance runs from 20 to 25 persons.

When I was a child we used to have a rhyme for rainy days. It goes like this, "rain rain go away, come again another day". That's part of it. I guess some of us felt like reciting it again this past week. By the way I saw my first robin Wednesday.

The big wind Saturday night seems to have caused some extensive damage.

Rev. and Mrs. Fairburn had supper on Monday night with the Emory Waybrights of Thornwood.

BENNIE GAY INJURED IN MOTORCYCLE MISHAP

Bennie Gay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Gay of Edray, was injured Tuesday night about 11 p.m. when his motorcycle, which he was riding, crashed into a car on Route 219 between Marlinton and Campbelltown.

The car, belonging to Eugene Pifer, had run out of gas and was left parked along the highway without lights. Bennie was coming towards town when his lights failed and, not seeing the car, hit it.

He was brought to the Pocahontas Memorial Hospital by an unidentified motorist who was staying at El Poca Motel. He suffered a broken right wrist, a bump on the head and bruises. He is in satisfactory condition at the hospital.

Dive Bomber Pilot To Expose Communist Threat To Marlinton

As chairman of a committee appointed by the then young town Rotary Club it was my privilege to organize, if possible, a library. With the aid and help of my committee, which included our present mayor, Guy Gandy, and then County Superintendent of Schools Eric Clutter, I looked for a room. Finally we were given the use of a room in the high school which is even as the "coach's room", room used as the polling

Dive Bomber Pilot To Expose Communist Threat To Marlinton

"The Communist Threat To Marlinton" will be the subject of a talk to be given at the Marlinton Methodist Church on Monday, March 27 at 8 p.m. The speaker, who says the title of his address applies to all communities, will be Commander Ralph E. Fisher, U.S. Naval Reserve.

This meeting will be open to the public. There will be no admission charge.

Cmdr. Fisher, who in private life is publisher of the Hardy County Moorefield Examiner, is highly qualified to bring this warning to Pocahontas County. During World War II he served as a dive bomber pilot on the carrier "Hancock" and as an Air Intelligence Officer. He served in the Korean War also as an Air Intelligence Officer. He is a graduate of the Air Combat Intelligence School of World War II; Intelligence School in Washington during the Korean War and of the 1960 National War College Seminar.

A native of Topeka, Kansas, Mr. Fisher attended Washburn University and Washburn Law School in Topeka and the University of California.

During his professional career as editor and publisher of the Moorefield Examiner, Mr. Fisher has served as president of the West Virginia Press Association, member International Assn. Aviation Writers and the Aviation-Space Writers Assn.; member-elect of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity. He has won many awards for editorial writing as well as for Community Service, Conservation, Tourist Promotion and News.

A commercial pilot from crop-dusting days, Mr. Fisher still flies. As extra-curricular business activities he is a real estate broker, banker, president of the Moorefield Development Co. and Valley TV Coop.

As if this weren't enough he also finds enough time to be active in the Masons, Shrine, American Legion, V.F.W., Lions, Q.B.'s, and others.

Commander Fisher was invited to bring his important message to Pocahontas County by the Marlinton Rotary Club which will tender him a recognition dinner to be served in Friendship Hall of the Marlinton Methodist Church the same evening at 6:30. All civic, fraternal and patriotic organizations have been invited to send representatives to this dinner which will be $1.75 per plate.

Reservations can be made at the Journal Office or through any member of the Rotary Club but must be in by Friday, March 24.

Special entertainment will be furnished at the dinner by instrumental musicians under the direction of Prof. Sammy Brill.

Attempt Being Made To By-Pass Elk Mt. Slide

The State Road Commission is busy finishing a project started some time ago and keeping its collective fingers crossed as to the final result.

For many years there has been a recurring slide on U.S. 219 about two-thirds of the way up Elk Mountain. Time after time the hillside has given way leaving a dangerous gap in the highway. Repeated shoring and filling gave only temporary relief.

Engineers claim that the cause of the slides was the fact that there was a huge round boulder under that section of the road and there were only two solutions

1. The cheapest way would be to drill and blast the big boulder to bits and thus remove the slick surface. The danger in this idea was that the entire boulder might also slide down the mountain leaving no road at all. Since there was no way to detour traffic around the area this was a big gamble.

2. The next choice was to cut back into the mountainside far enough to get away from the slide area. This not only would assure a continued traffic flow but, by also cutting into the bank on the curve above, would help straighten out the road. Although this was more expensive it was about the only thing the Road Commission could do. Several large pieces of equipment are being used on the job.

Fred Burns is hauling away the rock and dirt from the cut and using the material to fill in a gully between his garage and the highway near Riverside. It is said he plans to install a filling station and truck stop on the completed land fill.

Local Concerns Purchase Champion Ham, Bacon

The Annual Pocahontas County Ham and Bacon Show and Sale held last Thursday in the Marlinton High School Gym, proved quite successful with strong local

This year, for the second time, a number of unsmoked hams were entered in the show and sale.
